

Scottish Centre for Crime and Justice Research

Invitation 05-02-2021

Dear all,

You are invited to our next SCCJR Seminar which will take place on Friday 19th February, 12-1pm.

Theme:

‘Left Out and Locked Down: Rapid research findings on experiences of marginalised and excluded people during Covid-19 in Scotland.’

Speakers: Professor Sarah Armstrong, University of Glasgow and other presenters
TBC

Chair: Dr Cara Jardine, University of Strathclyde

Abstract:

Between July and December 2020 a large team of researchers at Glasgow University explored the experiences of four groups already facing isolation prior to the pandemic: people seeking asylum and refugees; survivors of domestic abuse and sexual violence; people under criminal justice control; and people living with disability or long-term health conditions.

This talk will overview key findings of the research including the nature of vulnerability faced by many in these groups, with investigators leading on investigation of criminal justice and domestic abuse cohorts speaking to specific findings in these areas. Methodological challenges of researching during a pandemic might also be a topic for discussion.

Please REGISTER your place for this seminar and we will send you a Zoom link next week.

Thanks, Rachelle

Rachelle Cobain, Centre Communications Officer

Please note I work part-time Mon-Wed
