

COVID-19 In Prisons Webinar

Centre for Crime and Justice Studies

Ladies and Gentlemen,

We're pleased to announce that our fourth and final speaker for Covid-19 in prisons: preparing for future pandemics is Dr Zubaida Haque from Independent SAGE.

The event will discuss strategies to prevent and manage pandemics in prisons going forward based on the learning from Covid-19, including what governance and accountability structures need to be in place to ensure public health is always prioritised.

Other speakers include:

- Chantal Edge - Public Health Registrar and National Institute of Health Research Clinical Doctoral Research Fellow (University College London Collaborative Centre for Inclusion Health)
- Nasrul Ismail - Lecturer in Criminology and Social Policy, School for Policy Studies, University of Bristol
- Éamonn O'Moore - MD MPH FFPH, National Lead for Health & Justice, Public Health England and Director UK Collaborating Centre World Health Organisation Health in Prisons Programme (European Region)

To register for the webinar, sign up here.

In related news, our Director, Richard Garside recently wrote about Justice Minister Robert Buckland's defensive response to the recent SAGE report on Covid-19 in prison and was featured in Noah Robinson's article in The Justice Gap on much the same issue.

We hope to see you at the webinar on 16 June.

Best wishes

Neala

Neala Hickey | Projects and Communications Assistant

Centre for Crime and Justice Studies

2 Langley Lane
London, SW8 1GB
United Kingdom