Dear Colleagues:

I am writing to let you know that we have a Postdoctoral Fellowship position that will be available beginning June 2022 and I would like your help in finding a suitable person to fill this position.

This is a 1-year renewable postdoctoral research fellowship in the Psychology Department at John Jay College of Criminal Justice and the City University of New York. The postdoc will conduct mentored research on a grant funded by the National Institute on Aging that focuses on the impact of early life exposure to child maltreatment on risk for cognitive decline, mild cognitive impairment, Alzheimer's disease, and biological aging. The fellow will join a multidisciplinary research group, have access to an extensive longitudinal data set, and have opportunities for training in all aspects of this research, including project conceptualization, data analysis, manuscript preparation, publication, and conference presentations.

In addition to the PI (Dr. Cathy Spatz Widom), other principals on the research team include Jennifer Manly, Ph.D., Department of Neurology, G.H. Sergievsky Center, and Taub Institute for Research on Alzheimer's Disease and the Aging Brain, Columbia University; Frances Champagne, Ph.D., Department of Psychology, University of Texas at Austin; Nim Tottenham, Ph.D., Department of Psychology, Columbia University; and Molly Maxfield, Department of Psychology, University of Colorado - Colorado Springs. John Jay College has a new, state-of-the-art building located in the heart of mid-town Manhattan.

Experience and Qualifications:

- PhD in psychology or related discipline
- Established interest in child maltreatment and/or aging
- Demonstrated capacity in scholarly research, as evidenced by publications and/or research experience
- Strong written and communication skills

Application Process:

Applicants may submit an application on the Research Foundation of the City University of New York website (RFCUNY.org/RFWebsite) or send a CV, statement of interest and prior experience, and names and contact information for three references to Dr. Cathy Spatz Widom (cwidom@jjay.cuny.edu).

Thanks for letting folks know about this training opportunity!

Best wishes.

CSW
