

CALL FOR PAPERS

Greening Justice: Intersections of Law, Crime, and Victimology

The School of Law and Criminology, Liverpool Hope University is pleased to announce a free one-day online conference exploring contemporary research and developments in justice responses to green crimes, environmental harm and activism, with an opening keynote delivered by Prof Angus Nurse (Anglia Ruskin University). Contributions are welcomed from academics, policy-makers, and practitioners.

The conference will take place on Wednesday 6th December 2023 via Zoom.

We particularly invite contributions that address any of the following:

- 1) Nonhuman animals, environmental entities, or the biosphere as victims.
- 2) Environmental activism and responses to it.
- 3) Legal mechanisms for achieving green justice.
- 4) Restorative green justice and alternative resolutions.
- 5) Academia, activism, and influencing policymaking.

The deadline for submission of abstracts is 1300 (GMT) Wednesday 22nd November 2023.

Notification of acceptance will be provided via email by 1700 (GMT) Thursday 23rd November 2023.

Registration for attendees is also now open via this link <https://forms.gle/3NV24veYgyLx7NJ26>. Registration will close at 1700 (GMT) Monday 4th December 2023.
